ANZAC DAY

THAI PUMPKIN, LEMONGRASS & COCONUT SOUP

Ingredients

Cooking oil spray

900g butternut pumpkin flesh, cut into 1.5cm cubes

3 stalks lemongrass (inner white part only), finely chopped

1 brown onion, finely diced

½ bunch coriander roots, chopped

2cm piece ginger, peeled & chopped

5 cloves garlic, thinly sliced

1 long red chilli, deseeded & sliced

Freshly ground pepper, to taste

375ml light & creamy coconut flavoured evaporated milk

800ml vegetable stock

2 kaffir lime leaves (optional)

Shredded coriander leaves to serve

Method

Place a large saucepan over high heat and spray with oil. Add pumpkin flesh and cook for 6-7 minutes, or until golden brown. Add lemongrass, onion, coriander roots, ginger, garlic, chilli and pepper. Stir and reduce heat.

Reserve ¼ cup of the coconut milk for serving. Once onion has softened, add remaining coconut milk, vegetable stock and lime leaves.

Simmer soup until pumpkin and onion are soft. Remove lime leaves, then puree soup until smooth. Serve with a swirl of the remaining coconut milk and coriander leaves.

After having a week off to get over his jet lag, Dr Akhiwu commenced at Cowra this week. People who have met him have accepted him readily, and it seems that Grenfell will have a good team with Dr Al Badran and Dr Akhiwu in a few months time.

It has been over 2 years now since Dr Varejka retired, and a similar time since there has been a local doctor attending the MPS. Many people are looking forward to things returning to some sort of normality, the sooner the better.

I have become aware that some people, somewhat unkindly, are spreading the rumour that Dr Akhiwu’s stint in Cowra is because his qualifications aren’t up to scratch. This is incorrect, and Dr Akhiwu would love to know who is saying this.

There are actually two main reasons for the period of supervision:

The first is that the registration board (AHPRA) is tending to be very cautious these days after some bad experiences which have been regularly reported in the media. All overseas trained doctors are therefore required to work under the supervision of an accredited GP for a stipulated period.

The second reason is that the nearest accredited GPs are at Cowra and they naturally enough want to have Dr Akhiwu at close quarters to observe his professional skills in action, so that they can sign off on his capabilities. It is unfortunate that this process further delays Dr Akhiwu’s commencement in Grenfell, but we will just have to grin and bear it. There is no easier option.

A dispute has arisen about the actual location of the shire boundary between Martins Lane and the Tyagong Hall Road on Henry Lawson Way. It all began when a road realignment was carried out back in the 1970s when a section of closed road was declared to be in Weddin Shire. The Valuer Generals Department, bless their souls, has suddenly decided it should have been in Young Shire. The fallout from this decision would have been the loss of a long length of the Henry Lawson Way which is fully grant funded, and also 600m of Martins Lane which has just been reconstructed and sealed by Weddin Shire.

Fortunately the Mayor and General Manager were able to meet on site with the Mayor, General Manager and Director Engineering of Young Shire to explain the situation and gain their agreement to have the boundary conform to the long-term signposting. This is now being arranged through the Lands Department.

Weddin Council, along with every other council in NSW, now has a new Code of Conduct to comply with the Division of Local Government’s new model code.

The main areas of change concern the conduct review panels and the disciplining of individual councillors, something which hasn’t featured very highly on the local front. You would expect these sorts of things to be more a problem in the city councils but two regional councils not that far away have had considerable troubles over prolonged periods.

The new Code of Conduct will be on Councils website shortly for all to see.

Council received some good news from Roads and Maritime Services recently, with approval being given for a $2.6 million upgrading job on the Newell Highway.

This is the biggest job that Weddin Shire has been awarded, and reflects the standard of work that is being achieved by the council workforce. A large part of this cost will go in materials and contract work, but a significant component will be wages which will find its way back into the local economy.

The State Government is currently examining these jobs and considering whether to open them up to private industry, which may bring in the big players. Council will continue to pursue high standards at low cost to ensure the RMS is getting value for money and to keep the work for local employees.

Following the success of “The Sapphires”, the next movie at the Grenfell Cinema will be “Calendar Girls”, on Friday 22 March to celebrate Seniors Week.

The movie, about a group of women who produce a nude calendar to raise money for leukaemia research, stars a cast featuring the majestically redoubtable Helen Mirren and Julie Walters.

It won an award for Best Comedy and the two stars received several nominations for individual awards. Another sellout crowd is possible. And its FREE!

The Grenfell Art Gallery concludes its current exhibition, ‘Different Strokes’, on Saturday 23 March. This is a highly colourful exhibition of art and porcelain with very reasonable prices, so be sure to catch it if you can.

Finally, a reminder that the Quandialla Pool closes this Sunday 17th, and the Grenfell Pool on Sunday 24th March. Council does very well to be able to keep these two pools going each year as some other centres have had to close theirs, or at least restrict the opening hours. Both pools will have upgrading work carried out in the off season.

Dates to Note

19 March - Lawson Festival Committee, Community Hub, 7.30pm
21 March - Ordinary Council Meeting, 5.00pm
22 March - Movie “Calendar Girls”, Grenfell Cinema, 2.00pm
26 March - Extra-ordinary Council Meeting (Estimates), 5.00pm
